SERIOUSLY MANGLED BENEATH TRAIN

Brakeman Kirkbride of the Houston & Texas Central Badly Hurt in the Yards Here this Morning.

About 9 o'clock this morning in the H. & T. C. yards at the compress crossing, Mr. J. H. Kirkbride, head brakeman on a southbound freight, No. 24, second section, was horribly mangled and bruised.

The train had just pulled into town and the brick warehouse crossing had been cut, and Mr. Kirkbride stepped between the cars to cut the compress crossing. When he cut the air the slack from the middle, or disconnected section of the train, shoved the loose cars down upon him before he was aware of it and he was thrown on the track beneath the wheels. The wheels passed over him before the cars could be stopped, crushing his right leg between the knee and hip, mangling his right hand and bruising his face and head very badly.

Drs. Oliver and Raysor were called at once and gave him medical attention where the accident occurred. As soon as he was able, he was taken to the freight depot on a stretcher where he was made as comfortable as possible for the trip to Houston.

During the time he was at the freight depot, Rev. Thomas, pastor of the Christian church, called on him and spoke a few words of comfort.

As soon as everything was in readiness he was transferred to the caboose, orders were secured from headquarters for an open track to Houston, and the fast run to the infirmary was started. Dr. P. M. Raysor, the local surgeon of the company accompanied him. The train was in charge of Conductor Thad Snell.

Mr. Kirkbride has been with the H. & T. C. about a year and a half. The Eagle learns he has a family. He has a brother who is also with the H. & T. C. and is a very popular passenger brakeman.
